'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Today's little effort is dedicated to the man who gets big hearted and washes the windows.

* * * *

First of all one requires a bucket-full of water. Never forget the water. It is most important for this job. Then one gets a good cake of soap . . . something that will make a nice smear on the window. Then one gathers up a clean cloth . . . being sure to get a linty one that will leave rags all over the window pane.

* * * *

Next one scours aroung until one finds a step ladder. The best type to be found for such a job is one that is weak and wobbly. It adds thrills to the job.

* * * *

We are now ready to start on our famous clean-up campaign. Stand back, ladies and gentlemen, and give him air.

* * * *

The large bay window looms before one. Get this job off one's hand and the rest will be easy. Up the ladder one climbs—and bumps one's head upon the window ledge. Time is now taken out for a few deep, but feeling, words.

* * * *

Time in. The job starts again. After reaching the top of the ladder, we find that the water bucket is still on the ground. The question now is: How to get the water bucket upon the top of the ladder. Down one goes and picks up the bucket. Half way up the ladder one bangs the bucket against one's knee and spills the water.

* * * *

Back to the house again to re-fill the bucket. This time one is struck by a brilliant idea and gets a rope which one ties to the bucket handle.

* * * *

Now he climbs the step-ladder, grasps the rope and pulls the bucket upward. It then hits the ladder and dumps the water out. A few more words and again the water bucket is re-filled.

* * * *

This time, by calm, patient work, the bucket is safely lifted to the top of the ladder.

* * * *

Now he is ready to start in on the window. But hold! what is this. The radio aerial is twisted as it comes through the window. Time is again taken out while our hero straightens the aerial Another brilliant idea: Why not construct a new aerial.

* * * *

The window washing job is now abandoned while the erstwhile window washer climbs on top of the roof and starts to work.

* * * *

Finally the aerial is adjusted to his own satisfaction. By that time it is almost dark . . . so the window washing job is left until the next day.

Ballots Sent To Local Voters

Richmond voters were receiving their sample ballots and printed pamphlets giving arguments pro and con on each proposition today following the announcement that all the matter had been placed in the United States mails at an expense of $742.80 for the entire county.

County Clerk J. H. Wells declared the total weight of the ballots was 5,941 pounds, just 59 pounds short of three tons.

P.G.E. MOVES TO BUY GREAT WESTERN

SANCTION OF COMMISSION ASKED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—UP—Application for permission to acquire all or any part of the preferred stocks of the Great Western Power company of California and the Feather River Power company now outstanding in the hands of the public was made to the state railroad commission here today by the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

In a statement at the time the Pacific Gas and Electric company said it was a further step in the announced plan of the firm to eventua'ly acquire all the physical properties of the Great Western Power company of California and and its subsidiaries, and to effect a complete merger of these properties with its own system.

The basis for exchange, if the commission authorized it, would be:

Two shares of P. G. & E. $25 par value 5 1-2 percent first preferred stock and two shares of its $25 par value 6 percent first preferred stock, for each $100 share of preferred stock of Great Western Power.

Four shares of P. G. & E. $25 par value 5 1-2 percent first preferred stock for each $100 share of Class "A" preferred stock of the Feather River Power company.

The statement issued declared there is now outstanding in the hands of the public $12,927,800 par value of the 7 percent preferred stock, and $4,896,500 par value of the 6 percent preferred stock of the Great Western Power company, and $986,000 par value of the 7 percent class "A" preferred stock of the Feather River power company.

CRASH VICTIM AT MARTINEZ

Following the amputation of his right leg in Hospital Richmond Saturday, Joe Martinez, 13 year old Sacramento boy was removed to the county hospital at Martinez yesterday.

Martinez, riding with four other boys along San Pablo avenue Saturday night came upon a machine that had been hit by another car. He alighted from his conveyance and was assisting the driver of the first car in moving his machine when a third automobile crashed into the rear of the car he was pushing and injured him so badly the amputation was deemed necessary.

At the Martinez hospital the youth is said to be recovering.

Richmond Woman In Divorce Plea

REDS STAGE N. Y. RIOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—UP—A series of Communist demonstrations was climaxed today by disorder in the city hall itself with Mayor J. J. Walker threatening to "thrash" a member of a Communist delegation who had uttered the word of "grafter."

Although the mayor was restrained from any intention he may have had of carrying out his threat the police substituted for him. Three members of the delegation were taken to an ante-room in the hall and were badly beaten.

Prior to this display of force, ohwever, the police had been cautious in handling demonstrators. Altogether, New York's "Finest" had one of its unhappiest days. In addition to the Communist troubles a book was published charging horrible cruelties in "third degree" methods and complaints were filed that members of the vice squad had thrust innocent women into jail.

Women Attack

There were individual indignities, too. One policeman, attempting to break up a minor riot, had

WRECKFOUND BY MAIL PLANE

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 16.—UP—A Wyoming blizzard has claimed the life of an army aviator, who braved its fury on a mission of peace.

The body of Lieut. William Caldwell was found today in the wreckage of his plane near lookout, 70 miles west of Cheyenne, where he crashed while on the flight to carry the Japanese ratification of the London Naval treaty across the continent.

Lieut. Irvin Woodring, leader of the flight, soared safely thru the storm and continued east with the document. Lieut. Caldwell had been assigned to accompany Woodring in a second plane to rush the ratification papers on to their destination if any accident befell the first ship.

Had Pact

They took off early Wednesday from Victoria, B. C., where the document had been received by steamer, with delivery of the pouch on the east coast in record time as their goal.

As they crossed Wyoming late Wednesday, they flew into a terific blizzard between Rock River and Laramie. The fliers became separated in the storm 20 miles north of Laramie. Lieut. Woodring was forced down just outside the city.

When the weather cleared, Lieut. Woodring continued to Cheyenne, barely missing a mountainside while he attempted to gain altitude. He remained here overnight.

The plane wreck was sighted by Ray W. Meskimen, piloting an

CANNON SUES W. R. HEARST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—UP—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Church, South, filed in District of Columbia Supreme court today a suit asking $5,000,000 alleged libel damages from William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher.

Newspaper articles published about him and his second wife, Cannon charged in his formal declaration, were designed to bring him into "scandal and disrepute" and to injure him in his calling.

Cannon charged that one article which alleged he was at the New York apartment of a Mrs. McCallum, whom he later married, on the night before his first wife's death two years ago, was printed for the purpose of making it appear that he "had been guilty of improper, unseemly and immoral conduct with the said Mrs. McCallum."

This article, published in a New Yory City Hearst paper last July 22, Cannon said was "absolutely and unqualifiedly false."

This article was said also to have been published in Los Angeles and Washington Hearst newspapers.

Cannon's declaration, filed by his lawyer, Andrew Wilson, charged these and other Hearst newspaper stories were designed to affect his standing in the church and in the prohibition movement.

Cannon and Mrs. McCallum married in London last summer, and they went to Brazil on church business.

A. F. L. Selects Convention Site

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—UP—The 1931 convention of the American Federation of Labor will be held in Vancouver B. C., it was voted late today.

Other cities in the field were Columbus, O., and Salt Lake City.

BANDIT HUNT COSTS HUGE AMOUNT

Approximately $200,000 was spent to capture Jake Fleagle, it was estimated today following the notorious bandit's death in Springfield, Mo., after his shooting by an officer near there, when he failed to throw up his hands when ordered to do so Tuesday.

Colorado State Bankers association was probably the largest contributor to the man-hunt expense when they gave $60,000 alone following the Lamar, Colo., bank robbery which resulted in the shooting of four men.

Other contributors to the fund were the United States postal department, California counties, including Contra Costa, San Joaquin, Calaveras, San Francisco and Alameda, where he was wanted on charges ranging from robbery to train holdups.

Rewards totaled $50,000 for his capture, and speculation is rife as to who will get the money for the famous bandit's killing.

Before Fleagle died he told the chief of police at Harper, Colo., that he was the man who held up and robbed the bank at Larned, Kan., for which his brother, Fred was being tried.

Among the men who took part in the big manhunt was George Austin, San Francisco postal inspectorfi who single-handed captured the famous train bandit Roy Gardner. He is expected back at his San Francisco desk within a few days.

In the rendevous of Fleagle in the Ozark mountains officers found a complete arsenal which was said to have contained high powered rifles and firearms of all descriptions in addition to a large supply of ammunition. Officers did not find Fleagle's money cache, which is believed to be in the neighborhood of the arsenal.

HIGH SCHOOL PLANS PLAY

"Why the Chimes Rang," will be presented by the Richmond Union High school students as their 1930 annual Christmas play. The production will be staged at the end of the present term in the high school auditorium.

The cast for the play is being chosen this week. The Christmas drama will be directed by Miss Dorothy Cox of the high school faculty. Miss Cox has staged many of the outstanding Richmond Union High school dramatic successes during the last several years.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Two Richmond couples plan to wed in San Francisco as indicated by their applications for marriage licenses in that city this week. They are: Stanley Zecker, 21 of 401 Bissell avenue to Myrtle Marcyes, 23 of Lake and Brodway, and Everett Dixon, 22 and Flora E. Pierini, 20 both of Richmond.

WALNUT CREEK MAN NAMED TO LEAD COUNCIL

More than 200 members of Contra Costa county council American Legion posts and Auxiliaries met in Memorial hall last night to name officers for the ensuing year.

Following the gathering of the two bodies which were welcomed to the city by Harry R. Burt each went to their separate meeting places where the Legion named and installed their officers. The Auxiliary will not select officers until after the first of next year.

Martin Fasching, Walnut Creek was named commander of the county organization; Ralph Beede Antioch, vice-commander; Melvin Irwin, Martinez, adjutant. District Vice-commander Charles St. Johns of Richmond installed the newly elected men into their respective posts.

Mrs. Lela Butler in charge of the Auxiliary meeting introduced as the Auxiliaries special guest Mrs. Mary Ann Holt, area president of San Francisco.

Following the formal meeting of the two bodies a combined banquet was served in the banquet hall. Ladies of the Auxiliary prepared and served the repast.

Next meeting of the two bodies was set for January 29 at Pittsburg.

One Killed In Hit-run Crash

OAKLAND, Oct. 16.—UP—A road house party of four young couples was broken up by a quarrel and ended in a tragedy here today.

Howard Costar, 24, was killed, his companion, Eileen Bowles, 19, was possibly fatally wounded, and another member of the party, Chester Nash, 24, service station attendant, was in jail on a charge of driving the automobile that hit Costar and Miss Bowles.

The proprietor of the road house, William J. Maher, told police about the argument between his customers. Maher said Costar and Miss Bowles had left alone, saying they would take a street car home. The other six, Maher said, departed a few minutes later and he closed the cafe. He said as he was driving along the highway he saw a couple ahead, walking arm in arm in the center of the road. They went to one side and he passed. A second later he heard a crash. Going back, Maher said, he found Costar and Miss Bowles badly injured.

State traffic police claimed they apprehended Nash as he was driving 60 miles an hour near the Hayward city limits.

New Submarine On Trial Cruise

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—UP—The giant submarine V-6, recently constructed at the Mare Island Navy Yards, left here today on its trial cruise.

The V-6, pronounced the most complete and efficient vessel of its type ever built, sailed through the Golden Gate with seven officers and a complement of enlisted men.

The cruise was expected to last at least 24 hours. After passing tests it will be based at San Diego.

The V-6 is 371 feet long, has a 33 foot beam and a draft of 16 feet when on the surface. It is propelled by twin electric motors which are expected to develop a surface speed of 20 knots. The control room has a gryo- pilot and valves controlling all machinery.

THE WEATHER

VALLEY IN PATH OF STORM

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—UP—First blizzard of the winter seethed down on the midwest tonight, sent temperatures in the cities bounding down to freezing, turned rain to blinding snowstorms and glazed streets and roads with ice.

The storm roared out of the northwest, where the worst autumn areas, then to descend upon the Mississippi valley.

In Canada the blizzard blocked traffic completely in many cities when a foot and a half of snow fell in a few hours. Motorists in Prince Albert were forced to abandon their automobiles in the drifts. The snow continued to fall so rapidly that shovelers were hopelessly outpaced.

The snow swirled down on Minnesota, melting at first and then covering streets with ice when temperatures rapidly grew colder.

Heavy winds churned snow and sleet across the entire Rocky mountain region, disrupting airplane and overland traffic in Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and Utah.

The same blizzard caused the death of William Caldwell, one of two aviators flying to Washington with the Japanese ratification, of snow fall near Laramie, Wyo.

ELKS SHOW REHEARSAL

Fifth practice in preparation for presentation of Richmond Elk's charity musical comedy was held in Elks clubrooms last night under direction of Earl Caldwell, San Francisco Elk and well known dramatics director.

The play to be presented in Community theater will be held the nights of December 4 and 5. Included among the cast will be a chorus of 10 dancing girls and several kiddies. The dancing chorus is under the direction of Matilda Meyer, Richmond dancing director.

Caldwell expressed his appreciation in the progress of the dancing chorus following its rehearsal last night. Members of the cast which will take important roles in the presentations and named last night were Frank Tiller, Edgar Dale, Charles Drake, Lud Johnson, Archie Winchcole, Dr. L. H. Fraser.

Rehearsals will be held every Thursday evening. Next week a glee club director will be present to aid in the formation of the casts and selection of music.

Moose Lodge To Hold Big Dance

Mac's Haywire orchestra will be the featured attraction at Moose hall Saturday night with Cecil Wright, the yodeling cowboy the center of attraction when the lodge holds its weekly hard times dance.

At the meeting last night announcement was made of the successful attempt of the order to secure a place for an aged member of the Richmond order in Moosehaven, Fla., home for the lodge's veterans.

E. B. Lowery, dictator presided at last night's session, who announced door prizes will be awarded at Saturday's dance.

HIGH GRIDDERS IN A.C.A.L. PLAY

For the first time in the history of Richmond Union High school the Blue and Red gridders will this year compete in Alameda County Athletic league competition.

The league season will begin next Friday when the Richmond eleven will tackle the Berkeley warriors on the Richmond Union high school field.

The Richmond athletes will travel to Piedmont to go into action against the Piedmont High school Highlanders on Oct. 31.

Richmond High school will send its gridders on the following Friday to Alameda. This game will end the league football season, unless the league play results in a tie.

If victorious in the Alameda County Athletic league, Richmond will probably get a change to participate in state competition.

The Richmond gridders are rated a fair chance of coming through to the top of the pile during the coming league season. This is their first year in the league, and they will be exceedingly anxious to show up well against the older veterans of Berkeley, Piedmont and Alameda. The local pigskin toters have been showing a consistent defensive brand of football, although they have not been able to come through the fray unscathed by defeat. These past games have served to show them the faults in their offense, and they have been working hard to mend these flaws during the past several weeks in preparation for the important league battles.

Aerial Hunters Held Danger To U. S. Wild Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—UP—Air transport is a new and dangerous menace to game. While it is unlawful nearly everywhere to hunt from an airplane, transportation to and from hunting fields by air is coming more and more into favor with sportsmen.

While air travel by sportsmen can not be criticized as unethical the fact remains that it increases the hazard to game, will increase the kill and is just one more obstacle to the maintenance of a supply of wild life.

Air transport companies are advertising that the new mode of travel "save stime," saves expense," "saves labor," and puts one quickly and easily into game haunts inaccessible to pack train or canoe.

"While there are new thrills to be experienced in soaring over forest sand lakelands seeking virgin gamelands," says Carlos Avery of the American Game Protective Association, "much of the romance and joy of the time honored and more primitive methods of travel by pack train, on foot and by canoe are lost. Many a veteran sportsman and explorer will be reluctant to abandon the forest trail for the paths of the air."

PAINFUL CORNS

Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c, "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunion Remedy" 50c, (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

Director For S F. Chamber

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—UP—John L. Clymer, known throughout the west as an organizer, was appointed managing director of the San Francisco chamber of commerce today.

Clymer came to San Francisco from Massachusetts in 1915 to organize chapters of the Red Cross in five western states. He later directed a $10,000,000 development campaign for the University of Southern California. Then he organized the California Institute of steel construction and has been managing director of the Retail Merchants association here for nearly three years.

ALBERT'S NET TOURNEY TO START

Play in the Albert's tennis tournament, for girls under sixteen years of age, is expected to be started within a few days under the direction of Ruth Healy, director of physicial education in the elementary schools.

The Albert's store of Richmond has donated a beautiful tennis trophy, which will replace the Edith Tough trophy which was won by Sylvia Seawright last year.

Like the Tough trophy, the Albert's cup must be won three times before the winner has possession of it.

Mrs. Healy highly praised Albert's yesterday for the interest they have taken in the tournament and for the donation of the cup

Margaret Johnstone vs. Betty Hunn; Rose Bartola vs. Claire Kendall; Linda Roberts vs. Teresa Del Axtell; Alice McCreagh vs. Evelyn Barber; Teresa Bernardi vs. Margaret Walleson; Norma Fegulia vs. Ernestine Henkel; Anne Euch vs. Kara Cox; Ruth McElroy vs. Edna Wickersheim; Grace Westman vs. Adeline Whitney; Dorothy Moore vs. Lois Tonaz; Stephanie Clark vs. Jane Kunkel; Phyllis Tandy vs. Lucille Data; Gertrude Bollpohn vs. Margaret Conn; Lucille Calfee vs. Esther Rhodes and Nadie Williams vs. Pearl Villa.

CAGE PRACTICE AT HIGH STARTS

A large squad of more than 25 lightweight cagers are turning out each night this week for C basketball practice at Richmond Union high school.

This year's squad is reckoned upon to produce one of the best C teams that has ever shot a basket for Richmond Union high high school. There is an experienced group of 11 youngsters of last year's C team and Junior high teams out for this season's quintet. Among the high school veterans are Fred DeCourten and Wayne Jackson.

This year's team is being coached by George Flores, who is being assisted by four cagers who will see action with varsity team when it goes into action this winter. The C schedule will probably start about the first of next month.

Varsity and B cage practice is scheduled to begin Nov. 10, following the close of the Richmond Union high school football season.

Unbaited Hook Nets Two Fish

ROANOKE, Va.—James Brown cast with two fishing lines. One of them was baited with a minnow, but the other had nothing but a hook. Brown says he had put a prayer on the hook however. Suddenly there was a yank at the minnowless hook; he pulled it in, to find two trout on the end. A game warden was on hand to net the fish, each of which measured thirteen inches, and to verify the story.

Summer's Sun Roasts Potatoes

YANKTON, S. D.—Roasted potatoes right out of the soil confronted Mrs. L. M. Flick here recently when her husband who had been sent to bring in a mess for the family dinner returned with a dishful. A further search of the potato patch revealed half of the field with cooked potatoes as the result of a week's heat wave.

Coast Golf Players Out Of Women's Play

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—UP—Glenna Collett, of New York, survived the quarter final round in defense of her women's national amateur golf title here today, but only after Miss Peggy Wattles, her young Buffalo, N. Y. opponent had forced her to 17 holes.

The match ended on the 17th green with a 2 and 1 victory for Miss Collett after the last three holes had been halved, two of them with birdies and the other in par.

Miss Collett was one down to Miss Wattles at the 8th tee, one up at the turn, 3 up after 13 holes, and had her final advantage of 2 strokes after holding out on the 14th. From then on she needed only to keep Miss Wattles from winning a hole and she did, but both played great golf in the close finish.

Coast Players Out

The quarter final round today saw the end of the Pacific coast's last chance to win the title when its two survivors, Mrs. Roy Green and Mrs. Leona Pressler were defeated. As a result, it was assured by the pairings that the final match would see the middle west challenging the east.

Miss Collett will play Helen Hicks, another New Yorker, in the semi-finals tomorrow. Miss Hicks eliminated Mrs. Pressler, San Gabriel, and California state champion, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Hill In Play

In the upper bracket tomorrow, Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City will play Virginia Van Wie, Chicago.

Mrs. Hill defeated Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., 3and 2, and Miss Van Wie made short work of Mrs. Roy Green, of Los Angeles.

Miss Van Wie was five under par for the 13 holes she played today. The fact that the Hicks-Pressler match went to the 17th green tells how hard it was fought, the last five holes being halved. Mrs. Hill played steadily today all the way and was 5 up on Miss Orcutt at the turn.

Won First

Miss Collet won the first hole of her match with Miss Wattles with a par five. Glenna was in a trap on her drive, but was out nicely with her second. Her third was short of the green, her putt was short and she was down in five. Miss Wattles' drive was to the right, her second shot was short, and her third to the right of the pin. Her putt went past the cup and her fifth missed coming back. She sank a short sixth.

They halved the second, third and fourth holes in par.

Miss Wattles evened the match on the fifth with a birdie four. She had two nice woods, her third was good to the pin and she was down in four. Miss Collett also had two splendid woods. Her third was short, but on the green. It was stymied. Her fourth was well up, but she missed her fifth and took a six.

Halved Sixth

They halved the sixth with par fours. Miss Wattles was one up when she won the seventh with a par four. Glenna drove into the rough, her second was short and her third put her on. Her putt was short and she was down in five. Peggy had a nice drive, her second was straight but short and her third hit the cup and bounced back. She sank her fourth.

Miss Collett evened the match on the next hole with an eagle four after pulling her drive. Her second was good and her third put her nearly on. She holed out a 40-foot chip shot for the eagle. Miss Wattles had two good wood shots, but her iron and putt were short and she took a five.

Glenna took the lead again with a par three on the ninth. Her drive sliced into a trap, her second was just past the pin and she holed her third. Miss Wattles also was in the trap, overshot on her second, and was short on her third to take a four.

Two Birdies

They each had birdie fours on the tenth and par fours on the eleventh.

The 12th hole put Miss Collett 2 up. She had a nice drive, her second was dead to the pin, her third short and her fourth in the cup. Miss Wattles drove into the rough, retrieved nicely on the second, barely passed the pin on her next, missed again on her fourth and dropped the fifth.

Miss Collett won the 13th in par five and was 3 up. Her drive got a downhill lie, her second went into heavy grass, her fourth and fifth were short and she sank her fifth. Miss Wattles drove nicely, but then faltered. Her second was short to the left and her pitch bad and barely on. Her approach putt was short and stymied. She missed the next and took a 6.

Battle On

Then the battle began. Miss Wattles took the 14th with a birdie five. Glenna drove nicely, her second was a beauty and then her third stuck on the bank of a trap. She pitched her fourth to the left of the pin, barely missed a putt for a birdie and was down in six. Peggy had two good drives, her third was just to the left of the pin, her fourth short and she was down in five.

Miss Collett was leading 2 and 4. They halved the 15th, 16th and 17th with pars, but even that gave Glenna a 2 and 1 lead and the match was over.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Desirous of aiding her father in making successful a farm which their ancestors founded Mrs. Leola Griffin, 17, plans to take a two-year agricultural course at Homer academy this fall, after which she will attend the New York state agricultural school at Cornell. The farm is at Sempronius.

INJURIES HIT BEAR SQUAD HARD

BERKELEY, Oct. 17.—Injuries in the University of California football camp have added a new complication to the alerady complex preparations now in progress for the reception of the Olympic Club at Berkeley this Saturday.

Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price was fortunate in 1929 in carrying his varsity squad through an arduous season with virtually no serious injuries, but this year his Golden Bear regulars have been beset by a variety of calamities until Price is scratching his head in perplexity to know how to gather together a team of sufficient strength to turn back the Olympians.

Price has asserted in no uncertain terms that he wants victory in the game, and his problem is complicated by the fact that to put a strong "B" varsity team in action he must effect a number of last-minute shifts.

Three of his varsity ends, Russ Avery, "Togo" Thornton and Ralph Stone, are not in the best of physical condition after their terrific struggle with St. Mary's last week. With Thornton, Avery and Stone out of the lineup, Price must find a wingman for the short side. One possibility is George Garner; the other is the possibility of shifting one of the right ends to the short side. In this latter case, Louis DiResta, who has figured in the games of this season, may be the choice, provided he can adopt himself to the change.

While the other varsity ends will be on the bench, ready for action, Price hopes to save them for their "key" game October 25 with Washington in Seattle.

The most radical change impending is the possible shift of Bill McCutcheon from halfback to quarter. With Ed Kirwan and Ed Griffiths, the two field generals who have alternated in games thus far, out of the lineup with injuries, Price has cast about for suitable replacements and has apparently settled upon McCutcheon. The big halfback played at quarter as a freshman and sophomore and was only shifted this season. He is thoroughly conversant with the Price brand of football strategy, and has been calling signals in scrimmage this week.

"Moose" Garrity, combination backfield man, will probably find himself working at right half, along with Ray East, speediest back on the squad. Garrity has been playing excellent ball this week. The fullback will probably be Gus Castro, newest rival for "Rusty" Gill's place. However, Price hinted today that he might start Gill instead of Castro.

Dolph Timmerman, giant Bear tackle who was injured before the start of the season, may get his first chance Saturday, paired with Gerald Easterbrooks, who has already gained experience in games this season. Seldon DelGiorgio, Timmerman's substitute who broke his little finger a few weeks ago, will be ready if needed.

Ted Beckett, who turned in the game of his career against St. Mary's will be resting this week, yielding his place to his first substitute Gene Elerding. Elerding replaced Beckett for a time in the St. Mary's game. Don Handy, brother of Captain Carl Handy, may work with Elerding, with Bob Pascoe in reserve. The elder Handy was injured in the Gael battle and has not yet completely recovered. Both Pascoe and Don Handy have already gained varsity experience.

GIRL RESERVES WILL ENTERTAIN WITH PARTY

The Girl Reserves of Richmond Union High school will enjoy a Hallowe'en party next Thursday afternoon in the Community theater at the high school.

A program will be presented, and refreshments and games will follow. All Girl Reserves attending are required to bring a guest to the affair.

The high school Girl Reserves are under the direction of Miss Clara McLaurin of the Richmond Union High school faculty.

August L. Bernes Returns From Trip

Following a five months' tour of Europe with Brick Morse's Collegains... August L. Bernes, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Bernes of the West Side, has returned to Richmond to resume his studies at the University of California in January.

Bernes visited Holland, Germany Austria, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Alsace-Lorraine, France and England. He spent several months in France with relatives. He was a member of the orchestra and glee club that entertained the passengers of the S. S. Volendam. On the return trip, the Collegians played at several Fox theaters.

Point Druids To Hold Turkey Whist

A turkey whist party will be held this evening by Point Druid Circle at Druid hall, West Side. A box of groceries will be given as a door prize, while a $3 order will be given for every three tables. The affair is under the direction of Louise Novarini and Kate Kemp. The public is invited to attend.

HONOR POST AUXILIARY WILL INSTALL

Following election and appointment of officers of Honor Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars at the organization's regular meeting in Memorial hall last night plans were made for joint installation November 6.

Plans were also made for a Hallowe'en party October 30 at which costumes will be one of the features. In charge of the affair will be Bessie Butler, to be assisted by Kathryn Heeger, Alice Newcomb, and Jessie Mayers. Whist followed the business session last night. Mrs. Anna Perry aided by Mrs. Thelge Zimmerman and Mrs. Minnie Howell were in charge of the affair.

Wilson P. T. A. Will Entertain At Party Tonight

Mothers and fathers are to be feted by Woodrow Wilson Parent-Teachers' association at the school tonight in a party where games, dancing, and other amusements will be featured.

Every resident of the city's area has been invited to the affair which is scheduled to start in the neighborhood of 7:30 p. m. it was stated last night. No charge will be made for those attending the affair.

Refreshments will also be a part of the evening's entertainment, which will be in charge of Mrs. R. F. Johnson, president of the group. Plans for a bazaar to be held by the association Dec. 5, have also been discussed recently. They are expected to be more fully consummated next Tuesday, when the members meet at the school for their sewing day.

LIBRARY GIRLS WILL VISIT G. G. PARK

Many social events were planned for the remainder of the school term by the Richmond Union high school Library Girls association at a meeting held recently at the high school.

The first event will be an excursion to the Golden Gate park in San Francisco. The second will be a theater party. The terms' activities will conclude with the annual banquet in honor of the graduating members of the association. This banquet will be given about Dec. 1.

Students Enjoy French Breakfast

The fourth year French language students at Richmond Union High school were entertained at a unique French breakfast recently by Miss Dorothy Cox of the high school language department.

The menu, typically French, included brioche, croissant, chocolate and confiture.

French was spoken by the students throughout the meal. Following the breakfast, French songs were sung by the group.

Local Matrons To Hold Bridge Party

Mrs. U. S. Abbott and Mrs. W. L. Ballenger will entertain at a fashionable luncheon and bridge to be given at the Athens Athletic club, Oakland, on Oct. 29. Many society matrons of the eastbay will gather at this function.

High Girls To Hold Meet

Plans for a supper or weiner roast will be formed by Richmond Union High school girls interested in athletics at a meeting to be held after school hours on Tuesday afternoon at the girls' gymnasium. The supper will probably be held the following week. Numerals and other awards will be given out at the affair.

MIRAMAR TO GIVE TURKEY WHIST PARTY

Annual whist of Miramar chapter, order of Eastern Star will be held in Masonic Temple tonight.

Preceeding the whist, business will be conducted at the regular meeting with Worthy Matron Bertha Terry and Worthy Patron Lewis Keading presiding.

A turkey order for every three tables and a turkey as a door prize will be awarded during the evening.

Request was made last night that all officers of the group meet at the hall at 7:30 p. m. that all arrangements for the event may be gotten under way so the affair may be started on scheduled time. The public as well as members and friends of lodge members have been invited to the event.

GRACE GUILD ENTERTAINED AT MEETING

Mrs. O. R. Ludewig was hostess to members of the Grace Lutheran Guild yesterday at a session in her home.

Mrs. A. Coakley presided over session. Mrs. T. R. Webster was the Missionary meeting, which was held in conjunction with the guild in charge of the guild meeting.

Plans for an indoor fair to be held Nov. 21 and a Hallowe'en party to be held in the near future were discussed.

More than 20 persons attended the meeting.

Mrs. McLaughlin suffered a broken collar bone in the fall.

Blinded Slayer Is Electrocuted

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 17—(Friday), UP—Joyce Shepard, the maddened murderer depicted in the Broadway play "The Last Mile" walked to his death here early today in a grim reality.

Shepard, blinded by self torture, was placed in the electric chair at 12:21 a. m. He was pronounced dead at 12:27 a. m.

Shepard, whose fanatical cry of "Jones, oh, Jones' 'echoed through Robert Blake's drama of death row, walked determinedly from his cell to the death chamber.

Blinded two weeks ago when he gouged out his own eyes with a sharpened steak bone, Shepard was led to the electric chair by two guards.

U. S. Missionary Held By Bandits

PEIPING, Oct. 16.—UP—Bandits holding Bert Nelson of the United Lutheran Mission prisoner in the province of Honan increased their demand for ransom to $300,000 today, the highest amount demanded in similar cases of kidnaping.

Nelson is a resident of Minneapolis. The bandits set a time limit of two weeks for the payment of the ransom. Their initial demand was $50,000.

Brothers In Split Over Movie Star

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—UP—Two brothers, one an adventurer and mate of the Pacific liner Calawaii, the other a thrifty business man, have come to a parting of the ways in seeking the heart of one woman, it was revealed in a $10,000 damage suit against the sea-going brother here today.

Krist Bertelsen, whose wife, Ingrid Bertelsen, filed a divorce complaint last Friday, has built a $10,000 home. He charged in his damage suit against his brother, Trygve, that the latter had not only written many love letters to his wife but had demanded that she seek all the community property so they could settle down in his home.

At the time he field the suit, Krist also demanded that an injunction be ordered to prevent Trygve from writing to Ingrid, speaking to her or visiting with her.

Attached to the damage suit as exhibit "A" was a letter, allegedly written to Mrs. Bertelsen by her brother-in-law in Honolulu, a part of which read:

"I think I would be a lot more satisfied with the old Calawaii if I had you to go to every time I get back and get some real good home cooked meals and feel your caressing arms and kisses.

"You are the grandest girl that ever lived. When I see all these other girls, then I fully realize what a pearl you are. Lots of love, from your own Trygve."

Youthful Slayer Given Life Term

RALLAS, Ore., Oct. 16.—UP—Dale Lawson, 15 year old confessed murderer of Mrs. Harriett Dickinson, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Circuit Judge Walker here this afternoon.

Lawson, who was suspected of the crime as soon as Mrs. Dickinson's body was found, at first maintained that the shooting was accidental. When confronted with positive evidence, however, he confessed the shooting, declaring that he wished to drive the car but was afraid Mrs. Dickinson would not let him.

Flier Killed In 'Chute Leap

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—UP—Fred Cole, 24 was killed at Rooseve't Field, L. I., today while testing a parachute belonging to Capt. Frank Hawks, noted trans-continental speed flier.

Cole had touched the ground when a sudden gust of wind threw him backwards causing him to strike his head against a concrete runway. He died of a fractured skull.

American Girl Lives Among Savage Tribe

GOYAZ, Central Brazil, Oct. 16.—UP—An American girl, Miss Elizabeth Steen, graduate of the University of California, came safely through the jungle today where for months in the hinterland of South America she has been living among the strange tribes of the tropics.

Miss Steen, accompanied by an Indian guide and a negro maid, reached this village on the edge of the jungle, capital of Goyaz province. She came into the interior on her daring exploration to engage in scientific research among the Jehovas and Chavantes tribes.

The only white person for hundreds of miles around, she boldly penertated the uncharted jungle in an effort to discover more about the peoples who inhabit the little known but vast areas of Central-South America.

On her expedition, which began last march, Miss Steen, 29 and comely, sought also to locate a tribe of natives which no white person so far has been able to discover. It was believed possible the British explorer, Col. P. H Fawcett, may have found this unknown tribe—but he disappeared in the jungles west of the Araguaya river region, whence Miss Steen has just emerged, in 1925, and none ever learned the result of his tragic quest.

Miss Steen sailed from New York on March 8 for Brazil. The region in which she has been working is 1,300 miles inland from the Atlantic coast. It is bounded on the west by the Xingu river on the east by the Araguaya river, on the north by the Tapirape river, and by the Mortes river on the south.

Miss Elizabeth Steen, the young American woman explorer, lives in San Jose, Calif., but originally came from Knoxville, Ia. She studied at Columbia University in New York.

WESTERN FILM WILL CLOSE TODAY

Vigorously acted by George O'Brien, supported by a splendid cast, "Last of the Duanes," based on Zane Grey's most thrilling Western romance closes its engagement at the Fox-California theater today.

This production takes its place as one of the most intensely gripping dramas yet offered on the talking screen. It is the story of a handsome young rancher who becomes an outlaw after he kills the man who murdered his father and whose complete redemption is brought about by love and daring deeds which result in securing for him a pardon.

O'Brien portrays the character of Buck Duane who falls in love with the beautiful girl he meets during his wanderings. He afterwards rescues her from a band of cattle thieves in most dramatic and thrilling fashion. O'Brien, always a local favorite, gives a capital performance, surpassing anything he has done since the screen began to speak.

"Last of the Duanes" serves to introduce a new personality to the films in Lucile Browne, beautiful and winsome little blonde, who scored repeated triumphs on the speaking stage before she decided on a career in talking pictures. She makes the most of her romantic role and is particularly convincing in her love scenes with O'Brien, adding a tender feminine touch such as only a talented artist is capable. She has already established her popularity by her portrayal in this picture.

Alfred L. Werker has accomplished a splendid piece of directing, painting the story of romance and adventure with a vivid and colorful brush, making use of the depths of human love and emotion in a background of nature's most picturesque settings.

The outdoor scenes are all of authentic beauty, having been taken in the rugged interior of Arizona, long famed for amazingly beautiful scenery.

The able adaptation and dialogue is credited to Ernest Pascal, noted author and successful dramatist.

Myrna Loy and Walter McGrail are also featured and the supporting cast includes James Bradbury Jr., Nat Pendleton, Blanche Friderici, Lloyd Ingraham among others.

Turtle Slays Duck; Both Are Eaten

SOMERTON, Ohio.—The Kenneth and Harold Moore families recently had turtle soup and roast duck at the same meal here. On the Moore farm pond a duck floundered around in the pond with its head beneath the water's surface. It was fished out with a rake and a large turtle was attached to the duck's neck.

One Held In Liquor Sale

Charging that liquor he and a friend purchased from William B. Thurman at Pullman hotel caused temporary blindness of the former, J. W. Moore gave Richmond police information that caused the arrest of the hotel proprietor and his arraignment before Police Judge C. A. Odell on a Wright Act charge.

Before Judge Odell, Thurman's bail was set at $1000 which he was unable to raise. His trial was set for October 21. He was taken to Martinez to be lodged in the county pail to await his trial date.

Charles Milligan, 30 Eighth street is the man who Moore says accompanied him to Thurman's place and became temporarily blind after partaking of the rum purchased there.

ENGLISH SAVANT WILL LECTURE AT U. C.

BERKELEY.—President Robert Gordon Sproul of the University of California today announced that arrangements have been made for two lectures on the Berkeley campus by Dr. Grafton Elliot Smith, professor of anatomy at the University of London, on the subject of Peking Men and Evolution of the Human Brain.

Dr. Smith, who is one of England's leading anatomists, and also one of her leading students of anthropology or the history of man, will lecture on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 18 and 19, at 8 p. m., in Room 11, Wheeler Hall. The lectures will be illustrated and will be open to the public without admission charge.

Previous to becoming professor of anatomy at the University of London, Professor Smith served for periods as Fellow of St. Johns College, Cambridge; professor of anatomy in the University of Manchester and professor of anatomy in the Egyptian Government School of Medicine, Cairo, Egypt.

He has also been Croonian lecturer of the Royal College of Physicians, Arris and Gale lecturer of the Rolay College of Surgeons, Morison lecturer of the Royal College of Physicians of Edenburgh, and Montgomery lecturer of the Royal College of Surgtons in Ireland. In 1912 he was president of the anthropological section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. He was awarded both the Prix Fauvelle of the Societe d'Anthropologie de Paris and the royal medal of the Royal Society, in 1911-12.

MOVIE PLAYER'S FATHER FOUND DEAD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—UP—The charred body of John Harron, 70, father of Johnny Harron, screen actor, was found today in an incinerator at the rear of his service station, where, police said, he had burned himself to death.

After a preliminary autopsy, Dr. John Schaffer said that he had found gasoline in the aged man's stomach, which police believe he drank.

The presence of the gasoline, together with the fact that Harron had been in ill health and worrying over his business, caused authorities to abandon earlier theories that he was murdered or the victim of a freak accident.

David Davidson, fire inspector, said he believed Harron drank gasoline, poured some over his clothing and then sat in the incinerator before lighting a fire. He admitted, however, that he was puzzled how Harron could have kept from screaming from the torture of the flames.

"I don't believe my father committed suicide," Johnny Harron said. "A motnh ago a taxicab driver drove into dad's station and told him his children sent him to bring dad home. Dad refused. We did not send the taxicab."

A daughter, Edna Harron, said she did not know of any enemies who might have killed her father. Another son, Bobby Harron, died of a gunshot wound in a New York hotel several years ago. The wound was said to have been inflicted accidentally by the father, who was making pictures for D. W. Griffith at the time. The surviving son, Johnny Harron, has taken prominent parts in many films. His latest appearance was in Al Jolson's "Big Boy."

Steel Mill To Increase Plant

MARTINEZ, Oct. 17.—Application of Coast Counties Gas and Electric company to the State Railroad commission for permission to sell its Pittsburg plant to Columbia Steel confirmed published reports that the steel concern intended to enlarge its plant here in Contra Costa county.

It was stated in the application that the steel company will dismantle the plant and use the land on which it stands for enlargement of its present plant. It was formerly the plan of the gas company to put the plant out of commission, and the proposed sale came as a welcome, it was stated. Columbia Steel offered $25,000 for the plant, it was said.

SUB CONTRACTS FOR FORD WORK

Corrugated asbestos roofing and painting of the new Ford plant were bids awarded to sub-contractors by Clinton Construction company this week.

The R. J. Dorn company of New Orleans, La., will supply the roofing materials for the work as well as install the same, while the D. Zilinsky & Son concern of San Francisco will paint the structure. The rough and finish painting work of the new plant will be done by the San Francisco firm.

Plumbing and riveting of the steel work on the north side of the assembly plant is expected to be started next week. Following the riveting work pouring of concrete of the second floor slabs will be started. Part of the roof which is to be of concrete is to be poured in the near future as well as concrete for the ground floor.

Barges carrying granite rock are expected to arrive at the plant today the material of which will be used in laying the retaining wall along the water front over which the dock will be constructed.

Upon the completion of the dock the spur track will be extended to that point. The tracks have already been laid to the waterfront. The slab work in the basement in the oil house was started with the pouring of concrete this week.

Savant Will Read Paper At Conclave

SAN FRANCISCO—Word was received here today that Dr. Theodore L. Althausen, assistant professor of medicine at the University of California Medical school, now in Europe as a Guggenheim Fellow, was asked to read a paper at the Twenty-first French Medical Congress at Leige, Belgium, a few days ago.

Dr. Althausen carried the authorization of the university as its official delegate to the congress which was held under the patronage of the king and queen of Belgium. The title of his paper, delivered in French because of the requirements of the congress, was "Functional Aspects of Regenerated Hipatic Tissues."

Dr. Althausen is in Europe for the purpose of studying diseases of the liver under various leaders in France, Germany, England and elsewhere.

Jurors Deadlocked On Child Charges

REDDING, Oct. 16.—UP—Jurors who heard the trial of the Rev. Albert C. Maxham, 44, of the Pentecostal church, on a charge made by 13-year old Violet Hemenway, member of his congregation were deadlocked tonight. They started their deliberations at 10:30 a. m. today and nine hours later there was nothing to indicate they would agree soon. The jury went out to dinner tonight and returned without giving any sign of impatience. Additional instructions had not been asked from the court, indicating the jurors were determined to stay out until they could decide the case themselves.

G. N., S. P. May Enter In Pact

PORTLAND, Oct. 16.—UP—R. M. Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, in a statement made here today, declared that if satisfactory terms are made the Great Northern will be willing to consider a joint use of Southern Pacific tracks for 25 miles south of Klamath on the route to California.

This possibility is still under discussion and is in the hands of L. C. Gillman, western vice president of the Great Northern, he said.

Davis Makes Plea For G. O. P. Vote

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—UP—Secretary of Labor Davis in a nationwide radio speech tonight warned that election of a democratic congress in November would bring hard times through renewing tariff uncertainty.

He predicted that if the democrats got control, the tariff issue would be thrown into the next presidential election, "and we shou'd have tariff discussion and tariff uncertainity for the next three years."

Woman Robbed By L. A. Bandit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—UP—A bandit, entered the residence of L. D. Sale, president of a wholesale drug company today, ordered Mrs. Sale to remain quietly in bed and escaped with jewelry, furs and money totaling $15,000.

When Mrs. Sale notified police she said she became aware of the intruder's presence when he prodded her with a revolver and commanded her to wake up. He took three diamond rings from her fingers. She said he warned her, "keep your mouth shut or I'll kill you."

Man 50 Named In Divorce Suit

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 16.—UP—The divorce suit defense that a male correspondent was of the "advanced age" of 50, and hence "above suspicion" was rejected today by Justice William F. Bleakley in supreme court.

Mrs. Barbara Halka, asking for alimony and counsel fees, pending trial of her separation suit, revealed that the husband, Joseph Halka, landscape gardener, had already sued her for divorce. Halka named "an old friend of the family" as co-respondent.

THREE INJURED IN BERLIN RIOTS

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—UP—Three policemen were injured tonight during rioting in the northern part of the capital, when Communists clashed with the authorities.

Twenty-six Communists were arrested.

The Communists' riot occurred during a demonstration on behalf of the striking metal workers.

The police dispersed the crowd but the Communists gathered again. Shots were fired from the crowd and from nearby houses whereupon the police reserves rushed to the scene, fired warningly in the air.

Reinforcements aided in dispersing the shouting, fighting mob, but not before three policemen had been injured by missiles thrown by the Communists. A number of Communists were believed injured, but their casualties were unknown.

RECONSTRUCTION OF GERMAN ARMY SEEN

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—UP — Announcement that Germany intended to exploit the possibilities of the reconstruction of her army within the full extent of the limitations of the treaty of Versailles was made by Chancellor Henrich Bruening before a sullen and hostile Reichstag today.

Germany's scholarly chancellor, in belligerent mood, struck in two directions, referring briefly but incisively to the nation's foreign affairs, and as to home policy, bold'y declaring that if the Reichstag did not support his finance reform program he was prepared to resort to a dictatorship. He declared he was prepared also to use force to support a dictatorship if unruly elements made that necessary.

Referring to the treaty of Versailles, Bruening said that neither the late President Woodrow Wilson's 14 points, nor those provisions of the treaty favorable to Germany "are being observed by our partners of the Versailles treaty."

Broken Treaty

"We were given their word that Germany's compulsory disarmament would be followed by the voluntary disarmament of the others, but this has not been brought nearer effectuation," he added. "This is an unmaintainable situation."

The chancellor then declared in this significant pronouncement on disarmament that Germany, within her financial capacity, intended fully to exploit the possibilities of the reconstruction of her army within the limitations of the treaty of Versailles.

Bruening declared the government would oppose demands for revision of the Young plan at this juncture.

Dictator Seen

It was believed tonight that Breuning's speech had strengthened the government's position on its financial program, and the hope that this program might be enforced by parliamentary methods.

The chancellor accepted the Socalist's demand that the program be discussed in committee before it is submitted to the Reichstag. He declared he would gladly accept modifications which really improved the plan.

The situation now is this: If the committee agrees to recommend the plan, it will go to the Reichstag, where, if rejected, Bruening will establish a virtual dictatorship. If the committee itself refuses to recommend the plan, the chancellor is prepared to ask President Von Hindenburg to adjourn the Reichstag, and a dictatorship will result.

Surrender Of Burgoyne Fete

One hundred and 53 years ago today General Burgoyne surrendered to the American General Gates to end the reign imposed by British troops quartered in colonies of the new American government.

In the convention agreed upon by the two men the troops surrendered by the Britisher were to be returned to English soil and not be used again against the Americans during that war.

The agreement was never strictly kept. The troops were never actually sent home. After being quartered in New England cities for several months they were later sent to Charlottesville, Virginia, where they marched overland in seven days making an average of 100 miles a day during the severe winter weather.

At the Virginia city a number of cottages were built for them, and when Virginia became the seat of war they were scattered in virious directions. Their number was being constantly diminished by pestilences, death and exchanges.

Following the surrender Burgoyne was permitted to return to England where he resumed his seat in the Parliament. He held the new American states in high regard, and if not a friend of the colonists never failed to do them justice.

The above information was given by Everett Cohen, of the Americanization committee of American Legion Post No. 10.

My Friends: Correct Your Eating Faults and Lose Your Fat With Kruschen Salts

Yes I am forty-five today—built like a race horse, my friends say—and I know I feel 10 years younger than I did three months ago—and I'd hate to tell you how much fat I lost with Kruschen.

I call Kruschen Salts the "magic salts" because when I was fat and wretched, despondent and half sick all the time—it took only one bottle that I bought for 85 cents at La Moine Drug Co. to liven me up—put ambition and energy into me—make me feel years younger and with the help of a change in diet show me how to lose the fat I was so ashamed of.

Cut out pastries and desserts—go easy on potatoes, cream cheese, and butter—eat lean meat, chicken fish, vegetables and fruits and never fail to take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

Every drug store worthy of the name in the World sells Kruschen Salts—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—not much to pay for bouyant heath.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

How Two Women Campaign

RUNNING for office is one of woman's jobs these golden October pre-election days, and it's such a new job that many persons have no idea how women do it. We've just been given a close-up on the campaigning of those two charming and brilliantly successful Congress-women, Representative Ruth Pratt (Rep.) of New York and Representative Ruth Bryan Owen (Dem.) of Florida. Here's how "the woman of it" in Congress is working for re-election.

In the case of both Ruths, the method seems to be a fifty-fifty combination of human appeal and hard labor. These women feel that they ought to get into friendly, personal touch with as many of their constituents as possible, and they don't mind work in the process. It is frankly their belief that a Representative is a person who represents every man, woman and child in his or her district; a friend at court; a public servant who is trying to give and not to get.

Mrs. Pratt has opened at the Hotel Roosevelt headquarters to which she goes every day, at which she simply and graciously welcomes every constituent who calls. Next week she begins speaking at public meetings; she has a full calendar of them. But what she considers her most useful campaigning—the phase into which she puts all the resources of heart and brain, to say nothing of feet—consists of her personal calls on the voters.

We accompanied her the other afternoon on one of these "personally conducted" campaign tours. Her car carried her to the district, but once there she trudged from one tenement house to another, up one dim flight of unpainted wooden stairs after another. To husbands and wives and sons and daughters she introduced herself with disarming simplicity and friendliness.

"I'M asking you to vote for me and I think the least I can do is to give you a look at me," she said everywhere, in effect—and how the constituents loved it! They beamed. They earnestly assured her that she'd get their votes and plenty of others, "because you deserve 'em, if I may say so to your face." They thanked her for coming and their eyes as well as their lips expressed their appreciation.

The candidate's enjoyment of the expedition was equally patent. She tremendously likes meeting these fellow citizens of hers who, she believes, honestly want to know about their government. Why not, she argues, since they turn to it for education, for health, for protection?—and since they are intelligent men and women!

After three successful campaigns—two for election to the Board of Aldermen and one for election to Congress—Ruth Pratt is convinced that the secret of the business is just, in her own phrase, "showing people you're interested in them." To us, her campaigning seems a delightful illustration of democracy as it should work—without superciliousness on the one side or sycophancy on the other, but with the simple human contact raised to the nth degree.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN apparently adopts the same principle of personal-contact campaigning to her huge district, one of the largest in the country and different from Mrs. Pratt's in that it is largely rural. It includes the whole strip of Florida's coast, from top to tip, and Mrs. Owen is travelling down its length by motor car and trailer. The trailer is arranged as a political office on wheels, with desks and typewriters and letter files galore.

"I would be so glad," she wrote us in reply to a request for a statement about her proposed new Cabinet Department of Home and Child, "to write the statement if I were not under an almost impossible pressure of duties now, but when I tell you that I am making on an average three speeches a day and travelling a good many miles between each speech, visiting every city, town and village in the five hundred mile length of my district, you will see why it is an impossibility for me to write."

Mrs. Owen believes that one of the most important duties of a Representative in Congress is to make a report to her constituents. She visits every one of her eighteen counties and practically every community in each, to give her people face to face the story of what she has tried to do for them, and to outline as clearly and simply as possible the ways in which their government touches their interests.

"Gatherings which represented the whole population of little rural communities listened attentively to every detail of my report," she has said. "By the resident secretary and those conferences held in every town, in which the people are invited to bring their problems personally to me, I want to gain that close knowledge of the thought of the people as well as their problems, without which I can not hope to voice accurately their sentiments."

Here, again, it seems to us that a woman is seeking office with campaign methods singularly well suited to a "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

At campaigning, as at other jobs, women may be able to teach men a thing or two!

WOMEN'S DAY

Women, with you lies the future destiny of our country. It is you who can build it up or mar its beauty. You have been given the privilege that you should have—the right to vote. Use it. Do not say, "I am not interested in politics."

When you say this you really say, "I do not care what becomes of my children or my country." It is your moral duty to vote. This is the only way to get good, sound, clean government for the people from the man in office, whether he be mayor, Governor, Senator or President.

The day is not far away when the women of the nation will thoroughly realize that they are the ones to improve on the blunders of some of our previous politicians.

Get busy! Stand for what you earnestly believe to be the good of the people. Vote intelligently and understandingly. Before voting you all know that you must register this week.

That is the important word—REGISTER. Then, on Election Day, go into your voting booth with your eyes wide open and let the world know that Nov. 4th of this year is Women's Day.

PHILOMENA M'GARRY.

And all we're wondering is whether he got away with it when Mary looked at him and exclaimed, "But, George, do you mean to tell me you needed FIVE more cars?"

Use Water First On Stains

THE nature of a stain determines the removing agent to be used. If you do not know this it will be safer to try water first, that is if the fabric will not be injured by water.

Sponge with cold water and if this is ineffective try warm water. Sometimes the application of water will reveal the nature of the stain, for instance a grease spot will not absorb cold water.

Hot water must be used with caution for in many cases it sets the stain as in gravy, milk or mes juice stains where the protein material must first be removed by cold water then followed by hot water and soap. A stain that becomes set is difficult, sometimes impossible, to remove, so it is safer to use cold or lukewarm water first.

Modernized Clock

PROPHETIC of what clocks are likely to be in the future is a highly modern one without hands and without numerals. A very gorgeous circular face of blue metal is posed on a square foundation. Two balls serve for hands and two for numerals. Decidedly a ball-bearing timepiece. A red ball denotes the hour of 12, the remainder of the balls being in gold, a large one for the hour, a small one for the minutes. Presupposing everyone's familiarity with the positions of the hours on the usual clock, the designer of this new model lets one guess as to the numerals, as the balls swing in their orbit.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

While there is such profusion of fresh fruits in the market, many of us would rather eat them than a cooked dessert. Apples, pears, persimmons, melons of several kinds, and Tokay or Malaga grapes present such a tempting array that nothing we can cook can vie with them. But if there are children in the family they feel cheated if there isn't something different for dessert. The chances are that the fruit bowl is commonplace to them. They may have been raiding it ever since they came from school.

KAREN HOLLIS

For the sake of such children, we must constantly add to our repertoire of desserts, remembering that the desserts must not be too rich or elaborate but must contain a generous quantity of milk. A dessert that delights children and one that is good for them is the following:

APRICOT BETTY

2 cups hot milk
1 cup bread crumbs
¼ cup sugar
1 cup canned or stewed dried apricots.
Grated rind of 1 lemon
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup shredded cocoanut

Pour the hot milk over the bread crumbs and sugar. Add b eaten eggs and grated lemon rind. Cut apricots into fine strips with scissors and add them with three-quarters of a cup of the cocoanut to the milk mixture. Pour into buttered baking dish and place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven from forty-five to sixty minutes. As soon as the mixture is firm enough so that a knife can be inserted and come out clean it has cooked sufficiently. At the end of the first half-hour's cooking, sprinkle with the remaining cocoanut. Serve warm with fruit juice, hard sauce, or cream.

SUITABLY CHOSEN RESTAURANT FROCK, HAT AND JEWELRY.

STANDARDIZATION of dress—curse of American style—is becoming a bit passe. Individuality is the watchword. We're not so much all one type as we used to be.

But the dangers of going it alone where fashions are concerned are funny. You can pick up one good looking thing here and another there, forgetting in your gay enthusiasm that they must all be worn together, and you can make the net result without even half trying something far removed from smartness.

Taste is something God given, but it has been known to be cultivated. But it is worthy of study, anyway, for taste in dress is what every woman wants—something which, alas, she always thinks she has.

Let's look at two girls going to a rather nifty restaurant for dinner with their beaux. They are going on to the theater afterwards. It is Saturday night—all is gay—both girls wish above everything else to be pretty, well dressed, and a noticeable part of the picture—not too noticeable—not funny. Let's see how they succeed.

* * *

Badly Assembled Ensemble

MISS B. has chosen a dress with a spangled top. She read that spangles were good and jumped at the opportunity. But she jumped thoughtlessly. The shape of the top is all wrong—out of proportion, badly cut. While the chiffon skirt is right in itself it looks queer starting at the line indicated.

She has plastered on her diamond pin just because she owned it—not because it meant much of anything to the whole and it doesn't. It just adds insult to injury.

She wears a spangled cap—too much. And that not being enough she adds paste earrings and a flashy necklace of the same composition. She ends by being all sparkle and nothing else. Her style is just all gummed up.

Then, alas, she has made the buckles on her shoes much too large and flashy and her stockings are far too light.

No wonder she hates the party and thinks the beau is all at fault. She doesn't know the aesthetics of good dressing as the forerunner of a good time.

* * *

Contrasting Smartness

MISS G.—that means "Good Dresser"—thought a little more wisely before she leapt.

Her dress of black chiffon has the dearest little bolero of white Alencon lace. Her turban is black velvet with a brilliant and ruby clasp to carry out the effect of the ruby rondel necklace and ruby bracelet.

Her black slippers have an ornament of three ruby stones just by way of keeping each accent of decoration in harmony.

Gloves of black suede are just right in this respect, though she could have worn white ones with a yellowish tint to go with the lace had she been so inclined.

Behold Miss G. smartly dressed for her party and sure of herself in consequence—a perfect picture in the accepted fashion of the day.

* * *

Good and Bad Dancing

TWO other girls are bound for a dance—swell party—fine time to be had by all—everyone in good spirits and above feeling the shock of an illy chosen gown, one would imagine.

But the damper of the evening appears in Bobbie's wake when she shows that velvet topped tulle. The rows of brilliants simply seem to outline the wrong line. The tassels are too extreme and funny, for they are made of brilliants, too.

The brilliant shoe buckles look absolutely clumsy appearing under the fine filmy skirt and the jewelry is all wrong and badly composed—old fashioned gold necklace and locket with this modern dress—bracelets too many and too assorted and then earrings of near diamonds that are all out of key with the rest of the costume.

Her friend has the same sort of dress, but in what good taste in comparison. It has a plain velvet top with the bodice appliqued over the tulle skirt and only a sparkling little belt buckle for ornamentation. The neckline is more graceful, the shoulders narrower. In fact, the whole look of the thing is right instead of wrong.

Then she has chosen her jewelry wisely—two strings of turquoise for the necklace and a bracelet of the same stone simply cut and shaped. Her pumps are plain, too, with little turquoise buckles to carry out the color spotting.

Thus the good and the bad—so little difference and still so vastly important are all the details and the sublety of the lines.

You and Your Child

The Child Artist

"WHAT'S that smear supposed to be?" asks mother disdainfully, as she inspects little Muriel's painting. "It's a sunset," is the child's timid answer. "Why don't you stop that daubing and make something real? Here, I'll show you how to draw a house," is mother's next step in Muriel's art education.

This mother is certainly very old-fashioned. The up-to-date mother knows that the little child is a born artist and should be allowed to freely express his own ideas through many mediums, with paints, crayons, clay, hammer and nails, song, dance and story. This mother realizes that her only function is to supply the materials with which the child is to work, and the encouragement. Today a little child is not expected to draw a perfect sunset, man or house. On the contrary he should be encouraged simply to express his own ideas in his own way. As he grows older the desire for a more realistic representation will come from within himself and then he will need instruction. By asking the little child to copy or by criticizing his achievements too harshly, we may repress his budding talents or even genius. Just showing a little one our confidence in his ability does much to release his talents. Treasuring the little lump of clay which is supposed to be a "doggie," and hanging up his painting of a sunset, will inspire him to better work.

We parents can help our budding artists in still another way. Their surroundings should be beautiful and artistic. We can sing lovely folk songs and lullabies to them so that they will become acquainted with other music besides jazz. We can play rhythmical tunes and allow them to improvise their own dances. The pictures on our walls ought to be carefully selected. Inexpensive prints of masterpieces can easily be secured. The pictures in the children's rooms should receive special attention. A good idea is to have the frames made with removable backs so that the pictures can be changed occasionally, as the too familiar is apt not to be noticed. Very little children like colored pictures best, and those of children and animals are their favorites. There should be time, too, in the busiest home for the story or reading hour, when all the glorious literature of the world can be spread before the young ones. They, too, will delight in "making up" stories and in acting out those they have heard. As they get older we can take them to a few beautiful concerts and theatrical performances. Encouraging them to bask in nature's delights at all seasons will probably inspire them with the love of beauty more than will anything else.

Waxing for Leather

AN OCCASIONAL waxing will prevent your leather books from cracking and peeling. As a matter of fact, all book covers (except paper ones) can be kept clean and spotless and kept from drying out and scratching by treating them lightly with wax. THE RODNEY BINKS MURDER CASE

(Detective Story to End All Detective Stories)

SYNOPSIS of what has gone before: Rodney Binks, a wealthy dry toast importer, was found dead in his library. Hilo Jack, the super-superdetective, was called in on the case and that's all you need to know.

BOWING in mock courtesy to the district attorney, Hilo Jack turned on his heel and resumed his search with the microscope. In swift succession he examined a smudge of soot on the fireplace andirons, a puddle of ink on the flat top desk and a hunk of mud on the edge of the library table.

"Not a one of these smudges has been touched," he reported triumphantly.

"That'll help a lot," growled the district attorney. "If smudges of soot, ink and mud haven't been touched, where's your clue in that?"

"It proves the murderer was very careful of what he brushed up against," said Hilo Jack, "and he was therefore wearing a natural camel's hair overcoat."

"All right," snapped Glutz belligerently. "We've got an accordion player in a camel's hair coat who doesn't tune pianos. The trail is getting hot."

* * *

"Only lukewarm as yet," smiled Hilo Jack, "but let me collate a few more facts."

He lit another cigaret and trained his telescope on the ceiling of the room, while District Attorney Glutz and Sergt. Hennessy looked on mutely. He scanned every square foot of the ceiling and announced, "Not a crack!"

"I didnt say anything," whispered Sergt. Hennessy.

"Shut up, you fool!" admonished the district attorney.

* * *

"I suppose that's an important clue too," sneered the district attorney impatiently. "I mean the fact there isn't a crack in the ceiling."

"It certainly is," answered Hilo Jack. "No cracks in the ceiling means the killer did not drive up to the house in a heavy truck. He therefore carried his tools in an overcoat pocket. And since he was wearing a camel's hair overcoat, we now know the pockets were big."

"Hennessy," remarked Glutz mockingly, "arrest every big-pocketed accordion player on sight."

"But he must be wearing a big-pocketed camel's hair overcoat," interposed Hilo Jack, "and know nothing of piano tuning. That narrows the field down considerably."

Hilo Jack proceeded scrutinizing minutiae with his microscope. Suddenly, in a corner of the library, Glutz espied a white silk handkerchief. He picked it up and felt it. It was still damp.

"Here, Mr. Sherlock Holmes," said the district attorney. "What do you make of this?"

* * *

Hilo Jack took the handkerchief from Glutz's hands.

"Hm-m-m," he hummed, "it is still damp." He concentrated for an instant. Then wheeling sharply to the police sergeant, he barked out, "Hennessy, go to the electric icebox in the kitchen and see if there are two ice cubes missing."

Hennessy departed obediently.

"What's the significance of that?" asked the district attorney.

"There is just enough dampness in this handkerchief," said Hilo Jack, "to be caused by two ice cubes melting."

"And if the ice cubes are still intact?"

"In that case the dampness is from perspiration of the palms," Hilo Jack asserted confidently, "and it changes the aspect of things."

* * *

Hennessy returned to the library.

"Nope, not an ice cube missing," he reported, adding a begorra and a bedad.

"Then the dampness is from perspiration of the palms," announced Hilo Jack. "And the perspiration is not from two palms, but FOUR!"

(The trail is now getting hot. Whose hands did the dampness come from? That will solve the murder of Rodney Binks. It will all be told in tomorrow's heaping instalment. We know you can hardly wait.)

Buy gloves with what it saves

It isn't necessary to pay 50¢ or more to get quality in a dentifrice. Listerine Tooth Paste, made by the makers of Listerine, comes to you in a large tube at 25¢. Note how it cleans, beautifies and protects your teeth. Moreover it saves you approximately $3 a year over 50¢ dentifrices. Buy things you need with that saving—gloves are merely a suggestion. School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

MAYOR FIGHTS WITH N.Y. REDS

a finger bitten to the bone. Another's hat was kicked off by a woman. Still another was nearly throttled by a group of infuriated women.

Mayor Walker first showed anger when he was persistently interrupted by J. Louis Engdahl, Communist candidate for lieutenant governor, who headed a Communist delegation before the board of estimate in city hall. At last Engdahl was ordered ejected.

He emerged into City Hall park and was greeted enthusiastically by 500 sympathizers who had been staging a desultory parade around the hall. Later he was arrested in a slight disorder on the Broadway side of the park.

Meanwhile the other five members of the committee remained in the board of estimate room, with Sam Nesin serving as spokesman in place of Engdahl.

Grafter Charge

Walker was nettled as Nesin continued to spout proposals for amelioration of conditions facing the unemployed.

"I should send for an alienist," the mayor commented at one time.

"I have as good manners as you" Nesin retorted.

The explosion was touched off when Nesin cried:

"The workers are being clubbed outside while you grafters sit up here buying jobs!"

Walker turned dangerously purple. His hand gripped a gavel and he stormed in reply:

"I'm almost tempted to come down there and thrash you, you dirty little whelp."

Threat Made

The mayor moved forward as though to carry out his threat but was restrained by a group of citizens who had been arguing before the board.

Up to that time the police had been fairly lenient. But taking their cue from the mayor's attitude they mauled their captives and, according to some witnesses, even used blackjacks. Excitement was heightened when Maud White, Negro, and member of the committee, shrieked out: "They're killing them!" This brought a large crowd and more police and soon the prisoners, with blood on their heads, were taken away.

The demonstrations began at noon in Bryant park. Two hundred Communists paraded with such signs as "No Work, No Rent", Al! Military Funds for Unemployment."

When police interyened a few persons were injured and five men, and a 16-year old boy were arrested. The boy was the one who fastened his teeth on Patrolman Mulroy's finger.

Demonstrations For Boy Scouts At Martinez Soon

Boy Scout camp demonstrations will be participated in at Martinez by six Richmond boys tomorrow when they travel to that city for the event.

Events will begin tomorrow afternoon when competitive demonstrations will be held. The troop making the best display will be given a plaque by the Pittsburg chamber of commerce.

Another plaque to be presented by the Martinez chamber of commerce will be awarded the troop displaying the best all-around camping ability as well as spirit and moral.

Every troop participating will be presented a banner by the Contra Costa Scout council. Awards are to be made that night at a campfire banquet. Among the judges of the event will be Frank Beebe and George Miller, both of this city.

Following the awards Scouts will go into overnight camp and the next morning cook their breakfasts before returning to their respective cities.

Local Firms In Big Merger

United Materials and Richmond Brick company is to be the name of the newly formed United Materials and Richmond Pressed Brick companies following their consolidation into one concern this week.

Announcement of the merger was made when they filed a petition with J. H. Wells, county clerk at Martinez.

It was stated at the time of filing the notice that the standing of neither company would be affected as the concern is owned by the same interests. It was believed by officials of the concerns that their business could be simplified by the consolidation of the work into one unit.

Army Pact Flier Killed In Air Crash

Lost Controls

The body was brought to Cheyenne by Brig. Gen. C. R. Howland, commanding officer of Fort Francis E. Warren, and aids who left for the spot in an ambulance immediately after Boyd returned with news of the discovery.

Boeing oficials said Caldwell evidently lost control of his plane while maneuvering to keep close to his companion as they encountered the snowstorm and went into a spin.

PACT PLANE LANDS AT MITCHELL FIELD

NE WYORK, Oct.16.—UP—Two army pilots arrived at Mitchell field tonight with the official copy of Japan's ratification of the London naval treaty on its way to London for deposit in the British foreign office.

Lieut. Irwin A. Woodring started from Victoria, B. C. with the treaty yesterday. He arrived at Cleveland from Cheyenne, Wyo. this afternoon and changed into an army airplane which had been flown from Washington by Lieut. Fred Olmstead. With Olmstead, Woodring reached Mitchell field, the army airport.

Chicago Cleanup Gains Progress

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—UP— Chicago's campaign against gangsters made notable progress today when George "Red" Barker, labor racketeer and "public enemy" was ordered back to prison to finish the unexpired four years of an old sentence.

The police department, meanwhile, brought about the arrest of four gangsters suspected of attempting to kill a police informant who was aiding in the search for the bandits who robbed Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of the mayor, of $15,500 in jewelry.

Barker was returned to the Pontiac state reformatory on a decision by Judge John P. McGoorty, who ruled that he had violated his parole from the original sentence by leaving the state.

Offsetting the victory over Barker, however, was a ruling by the State Supreme Court that Chicago judges cannot hold gangsters in jail under prohibitive bonds.

The system of setting bail at from $50,000 to $100,000 for hoodlums charged with vagrancy had been one of the most effective weapons in the anti-crime campaign.

Fatty Arbuckle Divorced By Wife

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—UP—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, once famous as the screen's heaviest comedian, was a single man today as the result of a Superior Court order granting a final decree of divorce to Doris Deane Arbuckle, film actress.

Friends learned that Miss Deane intended to marry Allan S. Lund, Los Angeles attorney.

Albert's Store Window Broken

A childish game of "hide and go seek" at Ninth street and Macdonald avenue last night resulted in the breaking of a large plate glass window in the front of Albert's department store, police reported.

The window was valued at $120. The names of the children responsible for the damage were taken, police reported.

MANY INJURED IN HEARST FETE BLAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—UP—With a cannon-like roar, a bottle of flashlight powder exploded today in City Hall rotunda during a celebration arranged by several city supervisors in honor of William Randolph Hurst, the publisher.

Hearst, sitting a few feet away was unhurt. The photographer, G. Sheldon of the San Francisco Examiner, suffered an injury to his right thumb that will probably necessitate amputation, cuts from flying slivers of glass and painful hand, arm and body burns.

Associate Justice John W. Preston of the California Supreme court sitting near Hearst, suffered superficial cuts from the flying glass as did Supervisor William P. Stanton. Other dignitaries including U. S. Senator Samuel Shortridge were uninjured.

Blast Feared

Occurring just after Hearst had resumed his seat after a speech, the blast roared through the high-ceilinged room and raced through the nearby microphone to the plaza outside and over radio lanes to listeners as far away as Seattle and San Diego.

In the rotunda, listeners were paralyzide with shock for a moment; then, as a hysterical woman set up the cry of "bomb!" all began a mad scramble for exits. Police reserves, battling to keep order, were swept aside, and it seemed for a time as if women might be trampled to death underfoot.

Outside in the plaza, the scene repeated itself. Stunned for the moment, hundreds heard the cry of "bomb" as it swept through the loud-speakers which had been planted in the building's facade.

Panic Starts

With one motion, all began milling toward the four entrances of the building.

A moment later, both crowds, inside and out, were stilled by the clear-headed action of Mayor James Rolph, Jr., and Walt Roesner, theater band leader, whose orchestra had rehearsed a medley of patriotic airs for the occasion.

Mayor Rolph shouted to Roesner: "Play something!"

Band Plays

As the strains of the Star Spangled Banner floated through the rotunda and outside to the plaza, both crowds, as quickly as they had been cast into panic by the blast, were frozen into immobility.

Apparently reacting almost involuntarily to the refrain, men stopped dead in their tracks, came to attention and removed their hats. Women who had been screaming and clawing their way toward the spot a moment before subsided and stood quietly by while the music played on.

Radio listeners scattered over a thousands miles, to whose ears the blast had come magnified a hundredfold by amplifiers, were reassured.

Blast Explained

A moment later, Supervisor Andrew Gallagher, prime mover in the celebration, reached the microphone and explained the occurence.

Flanked by judges of supreme, superior and municipal courts, Hearst had just finished speaking. As he took his seat, Sheldon, who had "shot" his employer, was feverishly attempting to change fulminating caps for another picture. A still-hot fragment of the old cap fell out of his powder "boat" and into the open bottle he was holding in his right hand.

With the blast, Sheldon was thrown ten feet to one side. Fragments of the bottle flew into the circle of dignitaries and newspapermen. The windows rattled and pieces of plaster from the ceiling 50 feet above pelted down on the heads of the crowd.

Police fought their way outside with Sheldon after the panic subsided. At a nearby hospital, his injuries were found to be painful though probably not serious.

Alice Brady Is Named In Divorce

DETROIT, Oct. 16.—UP— Alice Brady, stage star and daughter of William A. Brady, New York producer, is named co-respondent in a suit for divorce filed here by Mrs. Bernice McClelland.

The plaintiff is a daughter of Michael Wiseman, wealthy Detroit automobile dealer. She asks a decree from Donald C. McClelland, whom she married in March, 1929, after a romance which had its inception at the Civic Theater here where McClelland had been playing juvenile leads.

Mrs. McClelland alleges in her bill of complaint that Miss Brady made trips to Boston, Newport and Philadelphia with her husband and entertained him so frequently in her New York home that he made the Brady home his mailing address.

CANNERY HERE CLOSES FOR SEASON

First season of Filice and Perrelli cannery has ended following the sending of the last shipment of pears through the cookers yesterday.

A good season was experienced by the company during its first year of operation here, it was reported. Several hundred employes had worked steadily at the plant during its operation since its opening in July.

The plant, modern in every respect is said to be one of the latest in design located on the Pacific coast. Employes were looking forward to the plant's opening next year which has not definitely been set by officials, but is expected to be during the early part of the fruit season.

It was indicated yesterday that asparagus may be canned next year. If that is the case additional machinery will have to be installed, and crews of men will be kept busy at that work during the winter months. Present plans call for overhauling of the machinery now installed that it will be in perfect condition for use upon the plant's opening next year.

Fruits canned this season were sent in larg equantities to the east coast and England. These fruits included apricots, peaches and pears.

Have a

Cash Reserve in the Bank

The desire to make money quickly is natural but it is dangerous when it leads to risky speculation.

Many persons became aware of the risks during the recent break in the stock market.

Even those who held good stocks realized the importance and the necessity of having a cash reserve in the bank to meet the emergency.

An American Trust Company savings account is one form of investment that can readily be turned into cash—for it is cash—a ready reserve for emergencies and opportunities.
